

DAILY PRAYERS FOR THE

TWO-YEAR
BIBLE READING
PLAN

SEPTEMBER 2026

THE BIBLE & PRAYER

Delighting in our relationship with God involves both listening to Him speak and speaking to Him. Reading God's living and active Word to hear Him often prompts our hearts because we are encouraged, challenged, convicted, or awestruck. Part of relationship is then taking the time to marvel, to contemplate, to consider our hearts and lives in light of his Word. These prayers are based off some of the daily Scripture readings and are intended as aides to that end of slowing down to wonder, to confess, to rejoice before the God who promises He hears when we speak to Him—and that even when we don't know the words to say, He intercedes for us—what a gracious Father we have!

SEPTEMBER 1 (I SAMUEL 25, I CORINTHIANS 6)

Gracious God, thank you that you created me in your image – all of me, body and soul you knit together. Jesus, thank you for purchasing me with the precious cost of your own blood so that I am not my own but belong wholly to you. Spirit, thank you for making your home in me so that I am never alone and am daily empowered to honor God and love Him with all my heart, soul, and mind. What a glorious privilege to be the deep delight of the Divine! O help me, holy Trinity, to use my body for your glory, to avoid even the hint of immorality with my eyes, with my imagination, with my longings. Turn my heart afresh to you – so near within me – that I may desire you above all else and honor you with the decisions I make and the way that I live in every relationship. You are in me, you are with me, you enable me to live to your glory. May it be so today in every way for the honor of King Jesus and the glory of Almighty God. Amen.

SEPTEMBER 2 (I SAMUEL 26, I CORINTHIANS 7)

Heavenly Father, who watches over his people and loves to give good gifts to his children, I ask that you bless the marriages of our church family especially today. Soften hearts to one another in repentance and forgiveness. Renew intimacy spiritually, emotionally, and physically. Give spouses grace to care more for the holiness and flourishing of the other than they do about their own comfort and pleasure. May our marriages be a blessing to our children and a display for the world of the love of God for us. And Father, bless the single people in your family as well. You have called them to a state where they are free to be concerned only with what pleases the Lord; so work in them such utter devotion to you and satisfaction in their relationship with you. Undivided hearts that worship you and live for you are what we all long for. Forgive our selfish priorities, and renew our commitment to you, one another, and our neighbors in love. Amen.

SEPTEMBER 3 (I SAMUEL 27, I CORINTHIANS 8)

Loving God and Father, what could be more amazing than getting to share your measureless love with one another? Forgive me for so often loving myself more than my brothers, sisters, and neighbors. Even in my knowledge of you, I've become conceited and felt above others, distant from their hurts and needs. Give me your grace to consider others better than myself, to think more of their concerns and struggles than my own, to love them more than I love myself. Help me even, Father, to be willing to sacrifice my own freedoms, to lay down my rights, to give up my resources, in order to love someone who is struggling. (Think of someone in your church community you could show the love of Christ to even today. What will you do or say to reach toward them sacrificially?) Now God, strengthen my feeble hands and weak knees that I may follow through on loving as I have been loved to the glory of my loving Savior, Amen.

SEPTEMBER 4 (I SAMUEL 28, I CORINTHIANS 9)

Jesus, thank you for coming not to be served but to serve and to give your life as a ransom for many, including me! It is that gospel, that good news, that inspires me to want to become all things to all people – even to make myself a servant of others for the sake of their eternal good. O Spirit, fill me and help me today, because I resist becoming weak, I hesitate to serve people I feel superior to, I struggle to relate to those who flaunt your law and live intentionally under their own. But for the sake of the gospel, to share the good news of a Savior who has come for people like me and people very different from me, I will with your help move toward them. O Father, save them as you have saved me, and even use me to that end – that in me, the chief of sinners, they may see the wonders of your saving grace and the joy of walking with you today and forever. So shape my heart and so use me for your kingdom today in Jesus' name, Amen.

SEPTEMBER 5 (I SAMUEL 29-30, I CORINTHIANS 10)

Holy God who alone is worthy of my praise and worship and trust, draw my heart to you again today that it may at the same time flee all the idols tempting me to bow down, chase after, and live for them. Forgive me for thinking that I stand in my own strength, that I am above the temptations to which I've seen others succumb, that I can dabble with idolatry rather than fleeing from it and still come out unscathed. May I hate anything that would lead my heart away from you. May I reject all temptations to find lesser pleasures, smaller delights, or selfish ideas of control the places I find life. May I run toward you so fast that all other idols seem like a waste of time. Indeed, worthy Father, may every thing – small or large – that I do be done to your glory. Protect my heart today, Lord, for from it flow the issues of life. Remind me of your great love and your worthy character. Give me rest in you and your eternal goodness. Amen.

SEPTEMBER 6 (I SAMUEL 31, I CORINTHIANS 11)

Jesus, thank you for the gift of the Lord's Supper! On the night of some of your greatest agony, you gave us one of your greatest gifts – how amazing and marvelous that you would think of me even as betrayal, torture, and death lay right before you! Thank you, Jesus, for giving your body to be torn and hung on that cross in place of mine. Thank you, Jesus, for sealing the covenant in your blood when mine was owed for my sins. I eagerly look forward to another opportunity to eat with you and proclaim your death as my only hope. I eagerly look forward to the day when you come once and for all to bring me home and I enjoy this supper with you forever. I eagerly look forward to gathering around your Table with my brothers and sisters for whom you also died. Don't let me overlook them or treat any of them as less worthy of your love, when you gave your body and blood for each of them. Thank you, Jesus, for this wonderful gift!

SEPTEMBER 7 (II SAMUEL 1, I CORINTHIANS 12)

God of love, teach me to love my brothers and sisters in your body the way David loved Jonathan to the point of death. You have placed me in their lives and in this church exactly where you want me, so show me how I live and love for your glory. (Take a few minutes to consider your spiritual gift(s). Are you using them to build up the body God has made you a part of? What might it look like for you to use your gifts to bless others in fresh ways?) Spirit, guide me in the use of the gifts you've given me for the express purpose of building up your Church. Thank you for placing others around me with different gifts, and help me to appreciate and honor the different temperaments and talents surrounding me in the body of Christ here. You are so wise and so loving to your Church, so help us to use your gifts and trust your sovereign placement of each of us, for the glory of Christ and his Church, Amen.

SEPTEMBER 8 (II SAMUEL 2, I CORINTHIANS 13)

Triune God, Father, Son, and Spirit, I praise and thank you for your love today. I'm struck as I read Paul's description that your love is so patient, that it bears and endures all things. How, Father, could you love me after all the times I have loved myself more than you and your ways? Has there ever been loving longsuffering like the suffering of my Savior on the cross in my place? You have borne my sin, put up with my foolish selfishness, and endured my repeated idolatry in seeking out life in things so much lesser than you. What wondrous love is this indeed! God of love, would you so fill my heart with your love that my love to others would increasingly look like yours. Holy Spirit, bear the fruit of patient love in my life because I am so wonderfully loved by you. Help me to bear even unjust burdens and blame, to endure even unfair disapproval and scorn, to love like my Savior. May others see Him in my love today, in his name, Amen.

SEPTEMBER 9 (II SAMUEL 3, I CORINTHIANS 14)

Omnipotent and all-wise God, only you handle unlimited power with unwavering purity and grace. You never use your power manipulatively or maliciously; you always employ strength on behalf of the weak; you consistently bless others who are unworthy of your grace. But we are so consistently and completely corrupted by power. Like even the best men in King David's court, we long to be in control, to be on the inside, to have our names known and respected by others. We harm others in an effort to promote ourselves. We use our power and position to promote ourselves rather than help others. We often find that our power makes us feel better than those with less influence. Forgive us, Father, and grant us by your Spirit a humility that doesn't live for power but willingly uses influence to bring blessing to others and honor to your name. Might we live like our Lord Jesus, who humbled Himself and lifted us up. In his name we pray, Amen.

SEPTEMBER 10 (II SAMUEL 4-5, I CORINTHIANS 15)

God, I confess I hate death – all around me people are losing loved ones, battling difficult diagnoses, and struggling with fear of the unknown. Our bodies are breaking down, our souls are tortured by sin, our fears are increased by the brokenness and violence all around us. (Spend a few minutes telling God why you personally hate sin, death, and the Devil right now in your life.) But thanks be to God, who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ! Thank you that his death has defeated death. Thank you that his resurrection has removed the sting of death in sin's power over us. Thank you that his life today takes away our fears and enables us to stand confidently in our resurrected Savior, his work, and his love for us. O how we look forward to putting on the imperishable! O how great a day it will be when our bodies are like his glorious body! O how wonderful is our Savior! Free me from my fears today in his name, Amen.

SEPTEMBER 11 (II SAMUEL 6, I CORINTHIANS 16))

("Let all that you do be done in love." What situation, relationship, or decision in your life needs to be impacted by that reminder today? Tell God what you're wrestling with.) Loving Father, this sentence sounds like a straightforward reminder about my heart today; about my love for you with all my heart, mind, and strength; about my love for my neighbor as for myself. So much of what I do is done out of selfish ambition, competition, laziness, petty jealousy, bitterness, or personal preference. Holy Spirit, change my heart! Grow the fruit of love there richly and fully! Let love be not just a word for me but a lived reality in "all that I do" and everyone you put before me today. Help me love family, neighbors, co-workers, Grace Group members, friends, and even those who may be set up as my enemies. I love because you first loved me – graciously, deeply, and unendingly. Thank you, Jesus! Amen.

SEPTEMBER 12 (II SAMUEL 7, II CORINTHIANS 1)

Father of mercies and God of all comfort, how good it is to know you that way and to remember all the ways you have shown mercy and brought comfort into my life! (Spend a few moments recounting some of those specific ways to your Father.) How good you are to make covenants with your people, to enter into undeserved relationship with us, to promise blessing to those who trust you! I marvel at how this promise to David of a king in his line to be on his throne forever has come to beautiful fruition in the person of Jesus the Christ, anointed King, King of Kings and Lord of Lords. Indeed, this promise is yes and amen in Jesus precisely because of your steadfast love that ensures I will never be without a defender, without a leader, without a victorious champion to lead me into relationship with my God and life everlasting in a kingdom of peace and joy. Indeed, you are the Father of mercies – thank you for showing them to me!

SEPTEMBER 13 (I SAMUEL 8-9, II CORINTHIANS 2)

Here I am again, Father, your adopted son who is lame in both feet. I follow you so falteringly. I obey you so inconsistently. I testify to your greatness so waveringly. I deserve to be cast off, not seated at your table; crushed by your wrath, not sustained by your grace; left to my own devices, not provided for from your boundless blessings. Yet how good and gracious you are! You have opened the floodgates of heaven and poured out more kindness upon me than I can contain! That I – a rebel orphan – would eat always at the King's table is more than I could have dreamed and far more than I could ever deserve. Thank you for this glorious picture of your love in the life of David and Mephibosheth. Even more, thank you for loving me like that – for seeking me out, for welcoming me in, for providing for my every need. I praise you and thank you in the name of the One who changed my status to son forever, your great Son, Amen.

SEPTEMBER 14 (II SAMUEL 10, II CORINTHIANS 3)

Glorious Lord, what a treasure that you have shown us your glory in the face of Jesus Christ! We marvel afresh today at his greatness and goodness, his majesty and meekness, his power and patience. I need today your promise that as I behold Jesus, you are actually transforming me into his image from one degree of glory to another. Don't let me give up because you work faithfully to make me into the image of your Son. Make me hopeful because your Spirit is bearing fruit in my heart and life even when I can't see it. Keep me, then, gracious Spirit, fixed on Jesus. Give me a fresh glimpse of his wisdom, strength, dignity, purity, passion, and peace. I know you will make me like Him one day, but I long for that work to progress even now that I might honor Him and love others for his sake. Lion of Judah, Lamb that was slain, my victorious King, I worship you and depend on you today. Make me yours today and forever. Amen.

SEPTEMBER 15 (II SAMUEL 11, II CORINTHIANS 4)

O God, to whom belongs the true power and honor, who faithfully is working through even the hard days to bring us to share his eternal weight of glory, to whom I can entrust myself body and soul for eternity, I confess how much like a jar of clay I really am – probably more than I know. My body reels with aches and battles diseases. My heart suffers from deep disappointment, from emotions I don't know how to manage, from anxieties too big for me to control. My eyes, like David's, lust after things you haven't given me and lead me to desire what is not best for me. Have mercy on me, a sinner! Have mercy on me, a sufferer! Have mercy on me, your needy child! Show yourself strong in my life, O my God. Fight for me against my sin and my great enemy, the Devil. Renew my heart in its love for you and commitment to your Word and ways. But whatever happens in me, might all the glory be yours in all things. Amen.

SEPTEMBER 16 (II SAMUEL 12, II CORINTHIANS 5)

Could it really be true that I am righteous?!? Holy God and Father, what incredible grace is required to take one like me – sinful like David, I am “the man” convicted by the prophet – and make me into a new creation who becomes the righteousness of God. In fact, you have made me an ambassador of Christ – sharing the good news that if He can reconcile me to God, He can reconcile anyone! How is it even possible that I could stand before you justified, at peace, completely righteous? Jesus, how I thank you for becoming sin for me, for bearing my sin to the cross, for paying my penalty to purchase my pardon – yes, even for living perfectly to earn my righteousness. What a great Savior you are! You forgive my debt and you credit my account. You pardon and you purify. You stand in my place and you give me yours. Hallelujah, what a Savior! May I live today as a grateful, dependent, righteous new creation with my Jesus. Amen.

SEPTEMBER 17 (II SAMUEL 13, II CORINTHIANS 6)

God of all grace, the One who has given his Son for me when I deserved nothing but your just wrath, thank you for your amazing grace; don't let me receive it in vain. Father, guard my heart lest I abuse your grace in rampant idolatry and immorality like Amnon – disregarding the people and things you love. Equally though, Father, warm my heart lest I neglect your grace in cold selfishness, stubborn lovelessness, or persistent distance from you. Bear fruit in me by your gracious Spirit that I may be marked by love, joy, and peace ... that I may be filled with patient endurance in the difficulties of life ... that I may stand and speak boldly and joyfully of the hope of Jesus and the glories of his grace. But, gracious Father, don't leave me unchanged. I know your grace transforms me as I wonder more and more at the Jesus through whom I know your grace. May it change me through and through, and may I never get over it or get enough of it.

SEPTEMBER 18 (II SAMUEL 14, II CORINTHIANS 7)

God of peace, reconciliation, and restoration, indeed you devise means so that the banished one will not remain an outcast! You welcome prodigals home; you seek and save the lost; you come to call sinners to repentance; you are reconciling the world to yourself; you are a refuge for the poor; you are making all things new – praise your name! (Take a few minutes to consider people you know, including yourself, whom God has reconciled to Himself and restored to life. Praise Him for this aspect of his gracious character.) God, thank you that you have not left me an outcast from you in my rebellion and sin. Thank you for the gift of your Son, Jesus, and the promise of reconciliation with you in Him. Help me to reflect your heart more and more with those who are or feel banished from God's people, from God himself, from love and life. Make me an agent and ambassador of your reconciliation. In Jesus' name and for his sake, Amen.

SEPTEMBER 19 (II SAMUEL 15, II CORINTHIANS 8)

(Spend a few moments pondering the sacrifice of Jesus for you – giving up the riches of heaven and trading places with you so that you could be there with your God forever. Thank Him for his grace and ask Him to transform you in light of this sacrificial gift.) O Jesus, the One who became poor that I might become eternally rich, help me to give sacrificially and generously like you. Never will I run out of grace to give because you have opened the floodgates of heaven and poured on me riches beyond my wildest imagination. So may I give generously – of my time (which is now eternal, thanks to you), of my resources (which are so adequately supplied by you), of my self (which is gifted with talents by you and sustained by you each day). You have commanded me to excel in this grace. May it indeed be a grace that flows from your love rather than a mere duty, and may I indeed excel as your generous self-giving overflows to me. Amen.

SEPTEMBER 20 (II SAMUEL 16, II CORINTHIANS 9)

Gracious God, who loves a cheerful giver, how you fill my heart with joy at your abundant kindness to me! Your inexpressible gift is beyond words to describe or say thank-you for, but you have given us yourself in the person of your Son – all the way to the cross and the grave on our behalf! Indeed, your gift is all grace – past, present, and future grace; creating, redeeming, and preserving grace; grace for me, grace for your Church, grace for the world. Your gift is all sufficient – grace for every situation, grace for my physical sustenance, grace for my spiritual soul rest in you, grace for times I've sinned again, grace for bringing me back when I drift, grace for holding me tight and never letting me go. Your gift is all inspiring – encouraging me to share my resources, inspiring me to consider others better than myself, freeing me to live sacrificially for your kingdom rather than my own. All the grace, all the time, in all the ways. Thank you!

SEPTEMBER 21 (II SAMUEL 17, II CORINTHIANS 10)

How easy it is, Spirit, to find myself trusting my own strength, my own wisdom, my own gifts, to live for Jesus and fight for his kingdom. O forgive me! Help me today to take up the sword of the Spirit, the Word of God, and to pray in the Spirit in every situation – that my weapons may indeed have divine power to destroy Satan's strongholds in my life and the lives of others. When my thoughts follow my own wisdom, help me take them captive to Christ's Lordship. When my words are self-promoting, give me grace to repent and point back to Jesus. When my longings are for any idol more than Jesus, renew my heart and restore a right spirit within me. How I need your help each day and each moment! Remove my boasting in myself and stir in me a heart that boasts only in Jesus and his love for me and his cross, where He took my sin and made me his own. So help me in this moment and throughout my day, Amen.

SEPTEMBER 22 (II SAMUEL 18, II CORINTHIANS 11)

God of peace and Father of all comforts, living with you is my greatest delight, but it often involves real suffering. (Spend a few minutes telling God about things you have sacrificed or suffered for the sake of following Jesus. Don't forget physical, relational, or emotional trials.) There have been many of my own difficulties, Father, and on top of those my heart is also heavy for the brothers and sisters in your family who are hurting and struggling. Some have lost family members. Some have seen kids wander away and fight against them. Some have been hurt by those closest to them. Strengthen me, Holy Spirit. Uphold me with your strong and tender hand that holds the seven stars. Grow my faith in your greatness and goodness that assures me you are able and you are eager to help me. Guide me today that even in my sufferings I may trust in your grace and live for your glory. I pray in Jesus' name, Amen.

SEPTEMBER 23 (II SAMUEL 19, II CORINTHIANS 12)

(Begin by contemplating some of your own weaknesses – spiritual, physical, even skills and abilities where you struggle. Ask God to show you some of the places where you like to feel strong but really aren't.) God, I come to you weak and needy today – utterly dependent on your grace and strength. Father, forgive me that this is not the way I always come to you – that I often come secretly boasting in my own successes and capabilities. I want not my own power but the power of Christ to rest upon me. I want to be a living testimony that your grace is sufficient. I want the satisfaction and contentment that comes from finding my sufficiency not in myself but in you, great and awesome God. Make your power perfect today in my weakness. Let me be a humble but willing vessel for your merciful and mighty majesty. May others who see my weaknesses recognize a God whose grace is sufficient working in and through me. Amen.

SEPTEMBER 24 (II SAMUEL 20, II CORINTHIANS 13)

Our restoration is what I pray for, great God and Father. Restore the souls that even today are lost in darkness and distant from you. Restore broken marriages and make warring spouses into forgiving spouses. Restore wandering children to the goodness of your ways and the love of their families. Restore to health the bodies of our brothers and sisters racked by pain yet another day. Restore to peace those tortured by anxiety and depression, who feel another overwhelming day is before them. Restore life-giving friendships that time and neglect have drawn apart. Restore a zeal for Christ and the good news of his salvation to be shared with our neighbors and the nations. Restore those who have drifted from you and your Church, our Good Shepherd. Restore in my heart the joy of my salvation – to live with you today and for your glory in all things. Thank you for your grace, the love of Jesus, and the fellowship of Holy Spirit. Amen.

SEPTEMBER 25 (II SAMUEL 21, GALATIANS 1)

God and Father of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, I cling to and proclaim to others the good news of Jesus, the grace of Christ, restored relationship with you through faith in Jesus Christ alone. Guard me, guard my family, guard my Southwood Family, from any other Gospel. Keep us from becoming enamored with our own strengths and gifts and so beginning to embrace a self-centered gospel. Keep us from adding to Jesus our own theological, ethical, political, or moral requirements and so beginning to embrace a legalistic gospel. Keep us from becoming obsessed with social acceptability and so beginning to embrace a sub-Christian gospel where anything, even Jesus, is sacrificed on the altar of cultural connection. Drench us in the Gospel of Jesus' grace so that our hearts and souls are captured and filled and delighted by nothing else. Grow our love for Jesus, and turn us back even today to our first love. In his name, Amen.

SEPTEMBER 26 (II SAMUEL 22, GALATIANS 2)

(Spend a couple minutes contemplating why you need a rock, fortress, or deliverer. Then consider what it means that God is the refuge and stronghold you can depend on.) Praise you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, for being the safe place I can run at any time, in any distress, under any attack. You always hear, always see, and always move toward me – with a power that overwhelms any enemy and gives me rest and safety even in the worst circumstances. Thank you, faithful Father, for your steadfast love that leads me to sing praise to your name even now. I live safe and secure within the Rock of Ages. Indeed, in Jesus it is no longer I who live; rather, I live by faith in the One who loved me and gave himself for me. Thank you, Jesus, for such a gracious gift. Don't let me fear any foe with you at hand to bless; instead, let me stand strong in the mighty fortress that is my God and face whatever comes today in his strength. Amen.

SEPTEMBER 27 (II SAMUEL 23, GALATIANS 3)

Gracious Jesus, forgive me for my propensity to live by works of the law rather than faith, to trust my own performance rather than yours, to live the Christian life in my own strength rather than yours. I want increasingly to be a son of Abraham, who lives by faith, who finds his righteousness to be that of another, who believes every word God says – even when it doesn't make sense from a human perspective. O grow my faith, Holy Spirit! When I forget the glory of the Gospel, draw me back with the bonds of your love. When I drift from a gaze fixed on Jesus, shine the light on Him brilliantly so my gaze is riveted on Him. When I lose the wonder of my salvation and the astonishment at the grace of God in my life, remind me of where I would be without Him and deepen my dependence day by day. Fill my heart to overflowing, O well of endless living water! I trust you – not myself – and thank you again today. Amen.

SEPTEMBER 28 (II SAMUEL 24, GALATIANS 4)

Abba Father, what a privilege to call you by that name and to know that the reality of that relationship is actually true! You are my Father because you have made me your son – adopted when your perfect Son was born to redeem me – and now truly and fully the heir of the King of heaven ... thank you, thank you, thank you! (Spend a few minutes considering what this means to have God as your Father and how you can best lean in to that new relationship.) God, remind me that you love to hear what's on my heart, that you welcome me into your presence, that there is no time of day or night when my asking for your help is a burden or bother to you. Might I cry, "Abba!" more often. Might I run to you in my weakness. Might I turn to you even in my sin and learn, as David did, that it is always better to fall into your hands than those of anyone else. No matter what, you are my great Father and I your true son. Thank you, Jesus!

SEPTEMBER 29 (I KINGS 1, GALATIANS 5)

Holy Spirit, Giver of all good gifts, Helper of my sanctification, divine Companion in all my journeys, thank you for continuing to show Jesus to my weary soul, for revealing truth to me, for helping me cry out to my Heavenly Father in faith. Please grow in me more and more love – for my family, my neighbors, my enemies; joy – that fills my soul regardless of my circumstances or struggles; peace – that reigns in my heart because I'm held by my Father; patience – that endures all things because I have an eternal perspective; kindness – that considers others better than myself at all times; goodness – that honors you and respects others; faithfulness – persevering with loyalty, truth, and grace; gentleness – that won't snuff a smoldering wick but tenderly encourages the hurting; and self-control – to use all my energies and efforts for your glory. In other words, keep shaping me day by day in the image of Jesus, my Savior. Ame

SEPTEMBER 30 (1 KINGS 2, GALATIANS 6)

Holy God, who invites us to cast all our burdens on Him and know that his love will sustain us, thank you for the brothers and sisters you've put in my life whose burdens I can share and bring with them to you. Even now I think of those who care for tiny babies, foster children, aging parents, or chronically ill loved ones. I bring before you those weighed down by mental illness, those struggling in tense marriages, those battling against various addictions. I pray, kind Father, for those facing cancer treatment soon, dealing with job loss in this season, or wrestling with overwhelming parenting decisions. (Take a few moments to ask God to bring to mind specific names of people carrying burdens that you can share.) Now, Father, show me what it can look like for me to bear their burdens with them. Make my ears ready to listen, my hands ready to serve, and my heart ready to love as you would, Jesus. I ask these things in your name, Amen.

ABOUT THE PLAN

The Riverside Church Two Year Bible Reading Plan (Volume 1 & Volume 2) will allow you to read the New Testament and Psalms once every year and the Old Testament once every two years.

This bible reading plan is adapted from one compiled by Scottish preacher Robert Murray M'Cheyne (1813-1843).

You will find daily devotionals matching these readings in D.A. Carson's For the Love of God: A Daily Companion for Discovering the Riches of God's Word, Volume Two.
