Why We Sing — Psalm 147

1. When you think of singing songs of praise, do you think first of God's worth or your benefits/preferences?
2. What contexts in life can you think of where we sing to give honor to something or someone we consider great?
3. Which of God's character traits most move you to sing praise to Him?
4. What songs/hymns most move your heart to praise as you sing them?
5. Will argued that there is a crisis of worth and worship in our culture. Do you agree? How do you see that challenge in your own life?
6. Singing often shapes our hearts toward what is worthy in addition to reflecting what our hearts already consider worthy. From what more or less worthy pursuits does your heart often need to be called back to thanksgiving, awe, hope, etc. in the most worthy?
