DAILY PRAYERS FOR THE

TWO-YEAR BIBLE READING PLAN

OCTOBER 2026

THE BIBLE & PRAYER

Delighting in our relationship with God involves both listening to Him speak and speaking to Him. Reading God's living and active Word to hear Him often prompts our hearts because we are encouraged, challenged, convicted, or awestruck. Part of relationship is then taking the time to marvel, to contemplate, to consider our hearts and lives in light of his Word. These prayers are based off some of the daily Scripture readings and are intended as aides to that end of slowing down to wonder, to confess, to rejoice before the God who promises He hears when we speak to Him—and that even when we don't know the words to say, He intercedes for us—what a gracious Father we have!

OCTOBER 1 (I KINGS 3, EPHESIANS 1)

I praise you, my God and Father, for the glorious gift of Jesus and my relationship with Him! Truly He is the most extraordinary gift ever given, for inside my union with Him I unwrap the wonder of your eternal love and sovereign determination to rescue me; in fact, I unwrap the gift of adoption into your very family; further, I unwrap the fullness of your grace that comes to me through Jesus and turns my heart to you in endless worship; specifically, I unwrap the redemption that I have through the forgiveness of my sins purchased on the cross; then I unwrap an inheritance to look forward to forever in your presence that satisfies my deepest longings; even more, I unwrap the gift of your Spirit now so that I begin to taste the richness of that inheritance as I look forward to the fullness of it with you in glory. The gifts keep coming in Christ! So add to them, generous Father, wisdom like Solomon for living with you today. Amen.

OCTOBER 2 (I KINGS 4-5, EPHESIANS 2)

Because of the great love with which you loved us, O God, isn't that the foundation, the operative inspiration, the initiating cause of all our redemption! You loved us – with a great love, a patient and kind love, an initiating love, a sustaining love, a forgiving love, an everlasting love! There really is nothing else like it in all the world and no way to contain all its wonders. Truly it would overflow the largest ocean, soar past the highest eagle above the mountains, and outshine the brightest star. And you showed such inestimable love to us – to me – to all your people, even when we had turned from you and wrecked the glorious image in which you created us. How much greater does that make your love – that it settles its gaze on an object unworthy and thereby makes it worthy, that it rests on the unholy and makes them holy, that it sees the unlovely and makes us lovely. Because of the great love with which you love us, Amen.

OCTOBER 3 (I KINGS 6, EPHESIANS 3)

O Jesus, who longs for us to experience how high is your love to the greatest heaven, how deep is your love to the lowest sufferer, how long is your love to the most repeated offender, how wide is your love to the most different types of people, thank you for working in us by your Spirit. We have big dreams as a church, we have high hopes as your people, we have great aspirations in relationship with you, and you intend to exceed all of them because of your power to do far more abundantly than we realize. Exceed our expectations, holy God! Expand the limits of our imaginations with your incomparable greatness. Delight our souls with the marvels of your amazing grace and unfailing love – so that no matter what happens, we are clear that the glory belongs to you even when the joy and wonder belong to us. We worship you, and we trust you to work in ways that astonish us that we might love you more. Amen.

OCTOBER 4 (I KINGS 7, EPHESIANS 4)

How good and pleasant it is when your people live together in unity, God our Father! Indeed, Jesus has brought us together from different backgrounds with different preferences and different gifts to strengthen us together as one body. So I pray for Southwood, for the Church of Jesus in Huntsville, and for the global Church – that we might truly live as one, love as one, and contend as one for the sake of the gospel among our neighbors and the nations. Father, make us increasingly a church family here that forgives one another deeply, that speaks the truth to one another lovingly, that bears with one another patiently. Keep Jesus central in our minds, our hearts, and our mission so that we can fight together for his glory rather than against one another for our own glory. So give us that humility, gentleness, and patience that characterizes the unity you have given your people. How sweet it is to live together like that! Indeed, Amen.

OCTOBER 5 (I KINGS 8, EPHESIANS 5)

God, indeed there is no one like you – reigning over all the heavens and earth, dwelling in unapproachable light, awesome in glory, love, and faithfulness. Yet you have seen fit to come down and live with us – near your people in the Jerusalem Temple, now with your people as our bodies have become temples of your Holy Spirit. What a magnificent wonder and awe-inspiring reality! Let it sink in for me increasingly today that the God who cannot be contained is nonetheless dwelling in me – making me a beacon of your forgiveness, making me a source of living water and healing for the nations, making me a lighthouse of hope in the storms of life. O Father, may we be those things to one another in our marriages. May we love as you have loved us and given your life for us, Jesus. May we be filled with your Spirit so that peace and patience and forgiveness flow from us as they do from you. Help us for the glory of your name, Amen.

OCTOBER 6 (I KINGS 9, EPHESIANS 6)

Holy Father, forgive me for being so focused on the things I see, for wrestling too often against flesh and blood, for ignoring the spiritual realities around me each day. Open my eyes anew to see the powers of darkness attacking me and the chariots of fire surrounding me to protect me. And so make me one who is eager to fight with the proper weapon – praying at all times for all things and for all God's people. Bring me back to you on my knees in dependence not just daily but moment by moment. Don't let me think I'm OK in my own strength even for a minute. Equally, don't let me think I'm ever left alone even for a minute when you are fighting for me, mighty God. I know I can stand in this battle even against spiritual forces of evil and cosmic powers for greater is the One in me than the one in the world. So help me to fight by turning to you over and over and trusting myself to your gracious care. In the mighty name of Jesus, Amen.

OCTOBER 7 (I KINGS 10, PHILIPPIANS 1)

Faithful God, so often I get discouraged and wonder when I'll ever get better, how I'll ever make progress in following you, whether you'll give up on me when I fail yet again. How sweet and hopeful is the promise that you will finish the work you've started in me! (Stop and reflect on what God has begun in your life – from setting his love upon you and sending his Son for you to adopting you into his family and giving you his Spirit.) God, thank you for not giving up on me or leaving to my own devices, my own wisdom, my own strength. I long for the day of Christ Jesus because I am one with Him and will finally be fully what you intend for me to be – how wonderful! Help me not to lose heart today when I face the struggles of this life yet again. Help me not to despair of my weakness when your strength is at work in me. Help me not to set my affections on this world but on the kingdom of Christ that I'll enjoy forever. In his name, Amen.

OCTOBER 8 (I KINGS 11, PHILIPPIANS 2)

Heavenly Father, I confess that more naturally I consider myself better than others and struggle to prioritize their interests over my own. It's so much easier to be like Solomon, who got caught up in the things of this world, the pride of life, the deceitfulness of riches, and wandered from passionate love for you and sacrificial love for others. Remind me that in Jesus I have the mind that is willing to let go of my rights and privileges to see others blessed. Remind me that in Jesus I am united to the One who gave his life so that I might live for Him and for others. Remind me that in Jesus I am seated in the heavenly places so I don't have to fight for position and prestige here – I can give it to others! Bring to mind right now, Holy Spirit, someone whose needs I can consider before my own. And help me not merely to love in words and thoughts but in deeds and actions – that the image of Christ might be seen more in and through me. So help me!

OCTOBER 9 (I KINGS 12, PHILIPPIANS 3)

More than anything else, Jesus, I want to know you – even if that means sharing in your sufferings and coming to the end of living for my own resume and agenda. I know how easy it would be to follow the path of Rehoboam and take the counsel of those who tell me to live for myself and make a name for myself. In fact, that's the counsel of my own heart many days! Help me remember that all those things I can do and achieve are worthless if I don't know Jesus, stand in his righteousness, and look forward to sharing in his resurrection. Remind me that my home is in heaven, my security in God's hand, and my identity in Christ today and forever. Thanks for slowing me down, Jesus, to remind me of what's most important today – to hear your voice, to learn your heart, to rest in your love. Might I know you more today in every joy and sorrow and treasure you above all else, my God and King. Amen.

OCTOBER 10 (I KINGS 13, PHILIPPIANS 4)

O Father, how wonderful it all sounds – joy, peace, contentment – but they often seem so elusive for me! I'm so focused on my circumstances, and there seems so much cause for discouragement rather than rejoicing in the Lord who is good to me in every circumstance. I'm so focused on my anxiety about what I can control and what I feel like I can't control that I forget to bring everything to God in prayer and instead leave my heart and mind unguarded and subject to the attacks of the Enemy. I'm so focused on my own capacities to achieve the priorities I have for my life rather than depending on the Savior who strengthens me through his incomparable power to rest in Him no matter what. Remind me, Father, that you will meet all my needs according to your glorious provision in Jesus so that I will look nowhere else but Him. May I find all life's treasures in Jesus, including joy, peace, and contentment today. Amen.

OCTOBER 11 (I KINGS 14, COLOSSIANS 1)

(Spend a few minutes considering specific ways Jesus shows us who God is and what God is like. What things did He do that displayed his glory and grace? How did He treat people? How does that impact the way you view and relate to God?) Jesus, what a wonder it is to me that you who created this whole world were willing to enter into it to be near to us, even in our suffering, struggling, and sinning. Thank you for showing us so perfectly the God we were made to know and love. Thank you for helping us know how to relate to Him. Thank you ultimately for reconciling us to Him by your death in a way that we never could have made happen on our own. You are mighty and merciful, glorious and gracious, wonderfully just and yet willingly treated unjustly for the sake of those you love. God, may I draw near to you today as you so eagerly and sacrificially drew near to me in the person of your Son. To Him be the glory! Amen.

OCTOBER 12 (I KINGS 15, COLOSSIANS 2)

Gracious Father, help me to walk today and every day in Jesus – going deeper in my relationship with Him, finding strength in Him rather than myself, overflowing with thanksgiving for his grace. Guard me from the devastation of your people living in their own wisdom and following their own desires. Especially guard us from the destruction caused by leaders of your people doing evil and pursuing idols. Protect our leaders, O God! They keep watch over our souls, but help us keep watch over their souls by praying for them, pointing them to you, and eagerly following when they lead us in your paths. How many are the idols of this world that lead to our demise! They seem so easy to find when we are living in our own wisdom and seeking our own pleasure. So give our pastors hearts for your glory alone. Give our elders and deacons humility. Give our Grace Group leaders love for you, that we may all follow you faithfully together. Amen.

OCTOBER 13 (I KINGS 16, COLOSSIANS 3)

Sometimes, God, you make the contrast before me so vivid that it grabs my attention. You have set before us two paths: blessing and life, cursing and death. You show me the wickedness of Ahab and other leaders of your people – the utter devastation brought by the choice of idolatry, immorality, and self-love. On the other hand, you show me the wonder of setting my heart on things above – the utter delight of finding life in Christ, glory with Him at his appearance, and a life even now focused on loving and serving others as your dearly beloved children. Help me see today even the small choices I make that turn my heart after self, sin, and idolatry. Give me grace to resist Satan, to love others more than I love myself, and to follow Jesus to glory no matter the cost. Set my heart right now, King Jesus, on things above – may I love you most, long most for that joy, and look forward most to those pleasures at your right hand forever. Amen.

OCTOBER 14 (I KINGS 17, COLOSSIANS 4)

Jehovah Jireh, the Lord who Provides, remind me again today that I can trust you in all things. Help me to be faithful where you call me, like the widow of Zarephath, even when I don't think I have enough to obey or to survive. You, Father, have the power over creation and even over death so that having all I need at all times and in every way I may abound in works of faith and hope in you. Spirit, grow my faith; increase my obedience; lead me to generosity; help me even to risk for the sake of following Jesus; teach me of your abundant blessing; even give me grace to testify to your power and provision to anyone who will listen. Don't let the circumstances around me, my needs, my lack of resources, cause me to believe you are against me when you have spared not your only Son. How will you not also along with Him graciously give me everything I need? I love you and I trust you again today, gracious Father. Amen.

OCTOBER 15 (I KINGS 18, I THESSALONIANS 1)

(Spend a few moments considering in what ways you waver ("limp") between two opinions as you serve YHWH with your lips or your money or your church attendance but serve other gods with your time or your priorities or your efforts. Tell God where you sense the conviction of his Spirit toward an undivided heart.) O Father, you alone are God – there is no one like you and nothing else worthy of my heart's affection, my mind's attention, and my soul's adoration! As you showed yourself real and mighty in the days of Elijah and the prophets of Baal, so overwhelm me with your greatness and grace that my heart would return to you, you alone. Forgive me for the ways I have wavered – providing for myself, seeking pleasure in other places, assuming there was a better life apart from you for me or my kids – thank you for burning up the sacrifice of Jesus and not my wavering soul. I worship you with all I am today. Amen.

OCTOBER 16 (I KINGS 19, I THESSALONIANS 2)

Kind Father, who spared not his only Son but graciously gave Him up for us all, grow in me your heart of love for the people around me today. Work in me the love of Paul, who delighted to share not only the gospel of Jesus but also his very life because of his love for others. Give me love for my family … love for my neighbors … love for my fellow Southwood members … love for my co-workers … love for my classmates … love for the strangers I come across today. Give me grace to share my time, my struggles, and my energy with them and always to share Jesus with them. Help me to love them not merely in words but truly in deeds and actions. May your Spirit so fill me that the fruit of love overflows from me to everyone I see or speak to today. Your love, Father, is unmatched and unending; but might my faltering love reflect the nature of yours even in a small way today by your undeserved grace. I ask this in Jesus' name, Amen.

OCTOBER 17 (I KINGS 20, I THESSALONIANS 3)

(Spend a few minutes contemplating the various people in your life you're thankful to get to see God's work in. Consider family members, fellow Southwood members, friends, and neighbors.) Gracious God, how kind you are to continue your work in the lives of so many I love! Recounting to myself some of the stories of your grace intervening, your mercy protecting, and your Spirit strengthening stirs great thanksgiving in my heart and love for you as well as for my brothers and sisters. Give me opportunity to share this joy with some of these dear ones again soon – even those who live at a great distance from me. Continue to bless them today while I'm not with them, and show me whom I could visit for mutual spiritual encouragement. In the meantime, Father, hold them all fast in your strong and tender hand. Sustain them in their faith and use them powerfully in your kingdom work for the sake of King Jesus, Amen.

OCTOBER 18 (II SAMUEL 14, II CORINTHIANS 7)

Holy God, whose will for me is my sanctification – that I, like you, may be set apart as holy, may be increasingly living a life defined by my relationship with you, may be marked by a uniqueness in the way I live and love – meet me and transform me even in my grief. (Take a couple minutes to consider the most recent loss or injustice or life disappointment that you have experienced. Ask God to allow you to grieve deeply before Him and ask Him to show you an eternal hope for life, justice, or satisfaction in his presence.) Thank you, Father, that I can truly grieve and that you grieve with me, even as Jesus wept before the grave of his friend. You never minimize my pain! And thank you also for the hope of redemption and restoration and eternity that you set before me again today. You really will make all sad things come untrue and right every wrong. You, God, are my hope, and I live in that hope even through my tears today. Amen.

OCTOBER 19 (I KINGS 22, I THESSALONIANS 5)

Ever-present God and Father, your will for me is to rejoice always, to give thanks in all circumstances because I am in Christ Jesus – united to Him and therefore always your beloved child! Today especially I'm longing to grow in your will for me to "pray without ceasing." How amazing would it be if my relationship with you grew like that – where I was consistently aware of your Spirit's presence with me, where I was talking with you about the big and small things that arise through my day, where I was depending on you more than on my own wisdom, gifts, or strengths. Father, I confess it's almost too far from where I live to imagine. Help me! My spirit is willing, but my flesh is weak. I long to live with you like that, and your Word tells me that in Christ Jesus I can. I am united to Christ – everywhere, every moment – so give me grace to delight in you and share with you the momentary joys, hurts, and struggles even today. Amen.

OCTOBER 20 (II KINGS 1, II THESSALONIANS 1)

Holy and kind Father, I give you thanks for the love and faith you are growing among our Southwood Family. In spite of a range of ages, backgrounds, and social connections, you are giving us a deepening love for one another. Thank you for the love evident in our Grace Groups; in the hallways, classrooms, and nursery on Sunday mornings; in the bustling Wednesday night Southwood Family dinner. Thank you for the ways the least and the littlest and the left-out find a home in our family; may that love grow! And thank you, Father, for the faith that is evident throughout our church. Thank you for the faith expressed in peaceful ends of life for our dying members. Thank you for the faith expressed at the Lord's Supper by some of our younger members. Thank you for the faith expressed by many who are struggling and hurting but clinging to Jesus and his promises. May our faith grow as you refine us. Thank you, Jesus!

OCTOBER 21 (II KINGS 2, II THESSALONIANS 2)

What a wonderful concept, God our Father – that through grace you give us eternal comfort and good hope! Praise be to you that it is by grace alone that we have any comfort now but especially forever; our sins are too great for it to be otherwise. And the comfort we have in our Lord Jesus Christ, as his brothers and sisters, truly is as eternal as his divine being, his resurrected life, and his undying promises. Praise the Lord! Also, good Father and gracious Son, you give us good hope through grace. We have confident expectations, secure standing, certain futures because of what you have done for us, not because of what we have done for ourselves. We have the hope of overcoming Satan, of conquering death, of being held firm to the end – all because your grace sustains and strengthens us. So, God, may my comforted, hopeful heart live today in every good work and word you have for me, to the glory of Jesus and his grace, Amen.

OCTOBER 22 (II KINGS 3, II THESSALONIANS 3)

God who provides all that I need, thank you that you have given me work – formal and informal – that I can use the body, the mind, the skills you have given me to enjoy the fruit of your creation, to tend it and to keep it, to rule over it and exercise dominion on your behalf. So give me grace where you have called me today to work faithfully. Guard my heart from sloth when you have called me to significant work and also guard me from finding my identity in my work when I am defined by who I am in Christ, not by what I do. Sustain me, kind Father, that I may not grow weary in doing good. Make me grateful rather than self-reliant, humble rather than prideful, full of thanksgiving rather than full of greed. May I do all the work you give me as unto the Lord, because I know that you are the One who made me to work and you are the One who created good works for me to walk in. So help me in the name of Jesus, Amen

OCTOBER 23 (II KINGS 4, I TIMOTHY 1)

God who provides all that I need, thank you that you have given me work – formal and informal – that I can use the body, the mind, the skills you have given me to enjoy the fruit of your creation, to tend it and to keep it, to rule over it and exercise dominion on your behalf. So give me grace where you have called me today to work faithfully. Guard my heart from sloth when you have called me to significant work and also guard me from finding my identity in my work when I am defined by who I am in Christ, not by what I do. Sustain me, kind Father, that I may not grow weary in doing good. Make me grateful rather than self-reliant, humble rather than prideful, full of thanksgiving rather than full of greed. May I do all the work you give me as unto the Lord, because I know that you are the One who made me to work and you are the One who created good works for me to walk in. So help me in the name of Jesus, Amen.

OCTOBER 24 (II KINGS 5, I TIMOTHY 2)

Father, forgive me when I foolishly demand you to meet me on my terms and give me what I want from you, as Naaman did. Humble my heart and give me a fresh longing to know you, to see your power made plain, and to experience your healing. Indeed, your might knows no bounds – no ethnicity can claim the corner on your blessing, no social class can demand your response, no person can limit your grace. Please send a fresh outpouring of your Spirit to bring revival in our city, to transform communities around the world where our partners labor to declare your name, to humble nations before the God of the universe. You alone are worthy of our trust, our hope, and our worship. So continue to show yourself strong that even those of us of little faith have our trust in you expanded and our vision of your kingdom exploded to the nations. Cleanse, heal, and forgive, precious Jesus! I ask in your name, Amen.

OCTOBER 25 (II KINGS 6, I TIMOTHY 3)

Jesus, King and Head of your Church, I thank you today for the elders and deacons you have called and gifted to Southwood. I pray that you would continue to grow their relationships with you – that they might be bold, prayerful, humble, caring, godly men who lead this church in your ways. And I pray that you would raise up more like them to love and lead this church in the days and years ahead. Would you open all of our eyes, as you did those of Elisha's servant, to see the chariots of fire and to know that those who are with us are more than those with the enemy. There is so much more going on in this world than we see on a daily basis. Give me your eyes for the people and places around me every day. Help me trust your supernatural provision and the angels that guard my life and my church. Give me grace to live faithfully for the honor and glory of your name in everything I do today. I ask this in your great name, Amen.

OCTOBER 26 (II KINGS 7, I TIMOTHY 4)

(Spend a few minutes considering your schedule and priorities. What gets most of your time and attention – physical or spiritual concerns? Ask God to show you where your priorities may have become disordered and to realign you with his priorities.) Father, thank you for caring about both my body and my spiritual life. But I confess that sometimes I care more about how I look or how I feel than how I love. My relationships with others dwarf my relationship with you in my mind. I neglect you more often than I neglect a workout or a meal. Help me, Lord, to realize that "godliness holds promise for the present life and also for the life to come." In fact, help me to order my days and my hours in light of that reality. Don't let me give my highest priority to things of lesser value. You are ultimately worthy, God, and knowing you more and being shaped into your likeness is what I long for more than anything else. Help me to live in that light. Amen.

OCTOBER 27 (II KINGS 8, I TIMOTHY 5)

O God who sees everyone and who forgets no one, especially being near the lowly and brokenhearted, help me to reflect that love that you have especially toward the widows in my life. They are precious to you, Father; may they be so to me – that they may even feel your love for them through me. (Take a moment to consider the widows and other elderly people you know in your family, neighborhood, and church family). Gracious Lord, meet them in their times of loneliness with reassurance of your presence. Encourage them with your purposes for them even and especially in this season of their lives. Continue to comfort them with the hope of eternal glory with you as they long for that life that is truly life. May they know they're a valued part of our Southwood Family – or my own family or community. Shine through me the love that you have for these dear ones you've made and never forget. For Jesus' sake, Amen.

OCTOBER 28 (II KINGS 9, I TIMOTHY 6)

(Take a few minutes to reflect on your relationship with money. Regardless of how much you have, what do you look to it for? Security? Significance? Status? How content do you feel with what you have? Talk with God about how you really feel.) O God who gives so generously to his children, thank you for the countless blessings you have poured into my life! Forgive me for the entitled spirit and discontented heart that ever thinks I don't have what I need or doubts your good care for me. Root out from the depths of my being the love of money and all the other evils it leads to in my life. Remind me that in Christ I have all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge, all the riches greater than the world could offer. Then give me by your Spirit a deep contentment that I have exactly what I need in every circumstance because of your kind generosity and bountiful grace. I give thanks to you in Jesus' name, Amen.

OCTOBER 29 (II KINGS 10-11, II TIMOTHY 1)

O God who is faithful generation after generation, thank you for your covenantal work in the lives of our children and our children's children. Thank you for mothers and grandmothers like Lois and Eunice – for our own mothers and grandmothers – even as we miss them and care for them in their latter years. Strengthen us to honor them, their faith, and their legacy that has been passed on to us. Thank you for spiritual mothers who have shaped each of us. May they know even a fraction of their kingdom impact for your glory. And we do pray, Father, for the next generation – those we know and love and those who are yet unborn – that they will experience the beauty of your faithfulness in being a God to them, a God they can know and love and trust. Work faith in them, Holy Spirit, that they may enjoy the confidence of trusting you every day of their lives and live forever in the wonder of your presence. Amen.

OCTOBER 30 (II KINGS 12, II TIMOTHY 2)

Great is your faithfulness, O God my Father! Indeed, even when I am faithless, you yet remain faithful to all your promises to me. I confess that I do have a tendency to get drawn into youthful passions and foolish controversies, to neglect the calling you have given me as your child, to pursue my own priorities rather than your clear direction. So I cling to the truth that your character never wavers, that you forgive again, that your faithfulness is great and your mercies new every morning. Praise be to your holy name! God, I want to be more like you; I don't want to be faithless; I don't want to live for my own pleasure, comfort, and glory. So grow my faith in you, so strengthen my sense of your Spirit's direction, so help my weakness and fear, that I might increasingly be a faithful servant to my faithful Savior. Thank you for your grace that is sufficient every day, including today. I pray in Jesus' name, Amen.

OCTOBER 31 (II KINGS 13, II TIMOTHY 3)

Thank you, kind Father, for your holy Word. Thank you for wanting relationship with us sinners enough to use your breath to share with us your truth and grace, to tell us the story of your love, to give us the guidance we need to know and live with you. What an inestimable gift the Scriptures are to us! Would you now help me to use them as you have told me they can be profitably used in my life: teach me, reprove me, correct me, train me in righteousness that I may walk in every good work you prepared in advance for me. Shape me by your truth; your Word is truth! Help me not only to spend time with you in your Word but also then to live according to its beautiful and good precepts, to follow its commands, and to reflect the heart of its Author. Then, Father, I will know you more. Then, King, I will follow you more. Then, Savior, I will love you more in every situation every day of my life. Guide me, Spirit. Amen.
